"The dollars, and cheap it went. Why I've had twenty-five dollars for them. I let this one go cheap because I gotit at no expense to myself. I bought a trunk at an auction up town on the chance of what it contained. I gave a 'V' for it. When I opened it I found a lot of women's underwear, three heavy silver spoons, a stuff gown, nearly new, and a tin box. I opened to the tin box and in it I found that caul I sold this morning wrapped around a large chestnut. Here's the chestnut. I tried to sell it to a captain this morning—the same sell it to a captain this morning-the san bloke what bought this canl, but he didn' see it. If you want it you can have it for a dollar. It ought to bring plenty of luck, having kept company with the caul so lork, having kept company with the caul so long Don't want it, eh? All right; I'll find a cus

"How do you get them?"
"Well, I was born in one myself. My mother kept it for thirty-one years, and when the old lady died I hought I'd sell when the old lady died I thought I'd seli it. It had never brought me any paricular luck, as I could see. I got $5 for it. It was a bit tore. There must have been some-thing the matter with that caul, anyhow, 'cause the man what bought it, mate of a versel in the tea trade, sailing from New York to Hong Kong, fell off the main mast and broke his skull by hitting it hard on the deck the very next voyage he took. the deck the very next voyage he took. "Well, that's telling. However, I will tell you this about it. There is a comfortable profit in selling them; but, as you seem a decent sort of a chap, you shall have the next one I comes across for $6, and I'll throw in the chestint we was just a looking at. See here, now. Cauls brings luck anyhow, no matter what your business or profession happens to be. Say you're a minister. Nothing like a caul in the church, so they tells me. Why there's a Methodist preacher, not five aguares away, who bought a caul off me for a 'V' and the free christening of my wife's latest, and that chaphas had all the marriages and funerals in the neighborhood ever since. Why he's piling up the dollars thick, and is 'growing quite high-toned. Would you like a bit of a caul?"

Sirs,—I take this opportunity of informing you of the benefits I have derived from Dr. C. Mo-Lans's Liver Fills. I have derived from Dr. C. Mo-Lans's Liver Fills. I have for two years past been afflicted with a severe pain over the eyes, accompanied with a nervousness and sense of distriness; a malady beyond the power and skill of our physicians to relieve and cure, caused, as far as I myself could judge, by a diseased state of the liver and stomach. Some of the doctors tried bleeding, and various other remedies were tried, but all in vain, for the deep-rooted disease still stuck fast. At last, I procured a box of your valuable Liver Pills from a druggust here, and founds after taking a sportion of them, that have almost earlierly the superior of them, that have almost earlierly the State of the control of the

The Doctor's Mistake. One of the old mistakes of the profession was to think that there were no other ways of curing disase except those which had been handed down from former times. It is not to be denied that the Doctors have done great things for the world. But when it comes right down to the real curing of disease, it must be admitted that Brown's Iron Bitters has done enough to earn the generous gratitude of this whole present generation, including the medical profession. There are no mysteries or secrets about the compounding of Brown's Iron Bitters. This preparation of iron is the only preparation which will not in-jure teeth or stomach. In this it is beyond comparison better than the other preparations, which are mischievous and injurious. You need not fear a mistake in trying Brown's Iron Bitters. Your druggist has it. It gives vigor to the feeble, and new life to the dys-peptic. Children take it, not only with safety, but with great advantage.

VICARAGUA COFFEE.

It is not generally known that one of the finest favored outless now in the market is grown in Nicaracus. It is a handsome, large berry, and with a favor not so harh or pungent as the ho, but decidedly more piquant than the lars. Only a comparatively small quantity has yet found its way into our markets, but the general favor with which it has been gree ted, and the steadily increasing demand for it, are unmistakable evidences of its excellence. It is less costly then Java, and only a little more expensive than Rie, another argument in its favor.—The Excessing Star.
